

STEEL STRIKE IS NOW UNDER WAY

Only About 15,000 Men Failed to Go to Work To-Day.

BUT IT WILL GROW

Employees at Milwaukee, Chicago and Joliet Went to Work as Usual.

SHAFFER IS PLEASED

Pittsburg, Aug. 12.—Early reports from steel strike centers indicate that 15,000 failed to go to work this morning. The Republic, Painters, Lindsay and McCutcheon and the Frankstown puddling and rolling mills of the Continental department of the National Tube Co. in this district were closed. An attempt was made to start up the Republic works but the men refused to work and the fires were banked.

The Amalgamated failed to make good its threat to close both the upper and lower Carnegie Union mills. Dispatches from Joliet and South Chicago, Ill., and Milwaukee, Wis., say the men in those plants went to work as usual this morning in accordance with the action taken Sunday. At Monesson, Pa., the strike leaders decided to abandon all opposition for the present. The non-union tin workers went into the mills without molestation. The mills of the American Sheet Steel Co. at Vandegrift, Apollo, Leeburg, Hyde Park, and Salesburg are all running in full. None of the old men failed to report for work.

Schaffer feels pleased. Schaffer expressed himself as pleased with the strike situation this morning. He says the Amalgamated has lost nothing by the refusal of the men of the Federal steel plant to go out. All the mills in this part of the country have proved loyal.

Despite Schaffer's air of confidence there is a feeling of uncertainty about the Amalgamated headquarters this morning. In the absence of authentic reports from the affected districts the officials are rather at sea regarding the real situation. The long expected call for financial assistance has been issued. The general public as well as all members of organized labor everywhere are asked to subscribe to the needs of the strikers.

THE TRUST CLAIMS A VICTORY.

Steel Combine Managers Seem Confident of Success.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 12.—The managers of the big steel mills are claiming victory and declare that within forty-eight hours the backbone of the strike will be broken. The refusal of the men at South Chicago, Joliet and Bay View to obey the order of President Schaffer has given the managers great satisfaction and has correspondingly disappointed the strike leaders. Not only have the western men refused to strike, but operations have been maintained in several other mills. The strike leaders met the claims of victory with the assertion that their cause is making satisfactory progress and that they will show themselves masters of the situation before the contest has progressed much further. They do not conceal their disappointment at the refusal of their western brethren to strike, but none of the leaders would discuss the defection. President Schaffer refused to meet the newspaper men who sought him and kept within the seclusion of his home. Other leaders who were seen intimated that there would be developments today and throughout the week that would materially change the situation.

STEEL MEN WILL NOT QUIT.

Lodges of Workers in Chicago and Milwaukee Say No.

The national strike of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin workmen received a body blow yesterday. Workmen in South Chicago and in Milwaukee voted with emphasis not to strike. At Joliet the men deferred final action, but it was plain that the sentiment was not widely different from that at the mills where the union men, in flat footed fashion, refused to go out.

Gloom Among Eastern Leaders. In Pittsburg President Schaffer had nothing to say, but the other strike leaders were greatly disappointed by the news from the West. They resorted to prophesies as to what is to come on Tuesday, and even as late as Thursday, but none of them seems to be able to produce any figures.

On the other hand, the steel corporation representatives at Pittsburg, and other points declared they could start more of their mills as soon as they felt so disposed.

Other Mills Starting Up. Besides the mills about Chicago which were in doubt up to yesterday, the steel corporation reports resumption of work at the Ohio works of the Ohio works of the National Steel company at Youngstown, and the King, Gilbert and Warner plant at Columbus.

In the Carnegie group the Homestead, Edgar Thomson, Duquesne, Upper and Lower Union, and Howard Axle works, employing 15,000 men, are reported to be in operation without any trouble. Parts of other mills were also declared to be going ahead with sufficient force.

Vote at South Chicago: 190 to 47. The decisive action of the South Chicago mills of the Federal Steel company was taken by the two lodges of the Amalgamated Association. By a vote of 190 to 47 they declared they had no differences with their employers, and believed they owed more loyalty to their contract with the company than to the association. The two lodges have 572 members, 45 per cent. of them being present at the meeting.

In Milwaukee the employees of the Bay View Mills, likewise a branch of the Federal Steel company, expressed as emphatically as their South Chicago brethren their disapproval of the order of President Schaffer to strike. President Redfern of the Milwaukee lodge, informed his men that the South Chicago and Joliet employees were not disposed to strike, although they had expressed their willingness to contribute liberally to the support of the men who are in idleness in the East.

FACTS AND FIGURES OF GREAT STRIKE

Total..... 77,100

The Carnegie mills, the American Steel Wire Company and the American Bridge Company, the remaining organizations in the $1,000,000,000 steel trust, are not organized by the Amalgamated association, although it is expected that some of the men in the Carnegie upper and lower union mills will not report for work this week.

Will Import Workmen.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 12.—The first attempt to break the great steel strike so far as Ohio is concerned will be made in this city during the week at the works of the Crescent Tinsmith company, which is a part of the United States Steel corporation. A big building has been erected near the company's mills to provide accommodation for non-union men, who will be imported within the next few days.

HIS OWN BOMB KILLS HIM.

Italian Tries to Slay the Girl He Loved and is Fatally Mangled.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—Frantic as a result of unrequited love and jealous rage, Vincenzo Alsano, an Italian, hurled a stick of dynamite last night against the house where lived the woman who had refused his attentions. In the resulting explosion the jilted lover was so frightfully mangled that he died soon after at the county hospital. Ruby Fox, whose dear Alsano sought, was seriously injured and may die. The explosion took place at 433 South Clark street, and, had the Italian not bungled in his murderous work, it is likely that twenty or thirty people in the house where Ruby Fox lived and in the neighboring building, 431, would have been blown into eternity.

Baby Escapes; Horse Killed.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 12.—A horse attached to a carriage containing the 2-year-old baby of Wilbur M. Sweet, a well-known San Francisco oculist, became frightened and plunged over a precipice 100 feet high on Tiburon boulevard. The carriage fell, a battered wreck, on rocks at the foot of the cliff, the horse being instantly killed, but the little child was found nestling among cushions of the smashed rig, alive and without a scratch.

Convention of the Printers.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 12.—The forty-seventh annual convention of the International Typographical Union began its sessions in this city today. Delegates are present from all parts of the United States and Canada. The committee on laws has been in session since Thursday and will make its report tomorrow.

Supper will be served in the Sinnissippi club house at the close of the matches tomorrow, and all members of the club are invited to attend. Later in the evening there will be a dance.

HOW WINTERS STOLE THE BULLION; GREATEST ROBBERY OF CENTURY

Says He Was Tired of Work—Stole the $280,000 Worth of Gold So That He Might Travel Abroad—How His Plans All Failed.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 12.—Jack Winters told his story of the Selby robbery to newspaper men last night, and his statements are generally accepted as true in fact, although he may have lied in regard to some of the details. His story, told in response to questions, is as follows:

"I committed the greatest robbery of the century and I did it alone. These stories about my having committed other small robberies are false. When I plan a job I plan a big one.

"On Monday evening when I took the bullion out of the vault at the smelter, I did the hardest work of my life. It took me a whole night to finish drilling through the bottom of the safe and to carry away the gold. If there had been more time I would have taken the $300,000 I left behind. Daylight came too soon. When I saw that I would have to quit I dropped two bars on the beach. I preferred to lose them, rather than to risk losing a quarter of a million.

"It took me six weeks to dig the tunnel under the vault, and two nights to get through the brick foundation. I did a large part of the drilling the last night and forced my way through the bottom of the vault. Then I climbed up into the vault and threw down about half of the gold. I carried the gold to the outer end of the tunnel and went

AWFUL VENGEANCE OF A GEORGIA MOB

Husband of Wronged Woman Applied Torch to the Prye on Which Joe Washington Was Burned.

Savannah, Ga., Aug. 12.—Eighteen miles south of Savannah, near the Seaboard Air Line Railway, the charred trunk of the body of Joe Washington, the negro assailant of Mrs. J. J. Clark, is all that remains to tell the story of the tragedy of last night. Washington was captured at Liberty City yesterday afternoon, and was brought to Way Station, near which place his crime was committed. He was carried before Mrs. Clark, who identified him positively as the negro who had assaulted her. The proof of guilt was absolutely conclusive.

The negro's positive identification by his victim sealed his fate. A mob of 400 men clamored for his life but the leaders carried into execution the plans which they had formed. The rest of the mob was kept at a distance while the leaders conducted Washington to the railroad track, where a crowd was driven into the earth. To this Washington was forced and bound with chains in a sitting position. Mrs. Clark was invited to apply the torch, but she refused, and her husband was selected in her stead. Washington looked straight into the eyes of Clark as the latter stooped to apply the match. He showed no signs in his face of the agony which he must have suffered, and met death without a groan, as seemingly he had faced it without fear.

The tragedy was enacted throughout with all the semblance of decorum that its character would permit. Negroes, citizens of the section of Bryan county in which the tragedy took place, were almost a unit in approving it, and very many of them were members of the mob that carried into execution the plans of vengeance.

TWO BADGER GIRLS HAVE RUNAWAY

Neenah, Wis., Aug. 12.—Miss Albina Oborn of Neenah, daughter of L. C. Oborn, and Jesse Ewings of Appleton disappeared Saturday evening and there whereabouts are as yet unknown to relatives and parents. Miss Oborn is the young lady who recently escaped from a sanitarium at Oconomowoc and was later arrested in company with Jesse Ewings in Milwaukee. The marriage of the couple is absolutely opposed by the parents of the girl and no less strenuously by relatives of Mr. Ewings.

Five Years and $1,000 Fine.

New York, Aug. 12.—Policeman Wardman Bissert, whose trial for extortion from keepers of houses of ill fame attracted wide attention as showing corruption in the police department of this city, was sentenced to five years and six months imprisonment and fined $1,000 this morning.

Pontius Pilate a Heathen.

Pontius Pilate was what we call a heathen; his religion was that of the other Romans—he worshiped the gods, and the Emperor as the incarnation of the gods. According to Russian tradition he became a Christian.—New York Sun.

Fish Production of Florida.

It may surprise some to hear that Florida stands 10th as a fish producing state. It has a coast line (including islands) of 3,600 miles. The annual catch is about 36,000,000 pounds, with a total value to the fishermen of about $760,000.

ALL REFUSE SHEEDY'S MONEY.

Saratoga Gamblers Fear High Roller Will Hurt Bank Rolls.

Saratoga, Aug. 12.—Pat Sheedy, the famous sport and high roller gambler, cannot put down a bet in Saratoga. The proprietors of all the club houses have refused to sell even a five dollar stack of whites. The dealers are under orders not to turn a card for him.

Sheedy went into Canfield's club house Saturday and called for $500 worth of chips. He was politely told that his play was not wanted. His money was refused at the other club houses. It is said that the club house people are afraid of Sheedy's play. They know that if he should strike a lucky streak he would hurt the bank rolls.

Free Employment Bureau.

Madison, Aug. 12.—Special.—During the five weeks the new state employment offices have been established ending Aug. 10, 783 positions have been filled through their agency. Last week the number was 115. The applications for help have exceeded the applications for employment by over 400 during the five weeks.

BIG EXODUS FROM COLON AND PANAMA

Residents of Those Cities Leaving to Avoid the Horrors of War—Situation Is Serious.

Kingston, Aug. 12.—According to mail advices here today from Colon there was a series of engagements last week in the neighborhood of Panama and the government was experiencing some difficulty in keeping out the insurgents. General Alban, commanding the government forces, has arrived at Cartagena to gather troops for service in the isthmus. Colonel Abel Murilla, General Uribe, Uribe's aide, was still in prison when the steamer which brought this news left Cartagena.

Strict martial law is enforced at Panama and Colon, the present districts of insurgent activity, and an order was issued last week in both cities announcing that all persons found under arms without permit would be shot as traitors. The same order called upon all foreign residents to furnish themselves with arms, so as to act as police whenever called upon.

Colombia as a whole is all the more unsettled in consequence of the fear of war with Venezuela over repeated invasions of Venezuelan territory. The situation is generally considered serious.

AN EXHIBITION OF WISCONSIN PEARLS

Precious Beauties to the Value of from Ten to Fifteen Thousand Dollars Shown in This City.

Wisconsin pearls to the value of from $10,000 to $15,000 were in evidence at the St. Paul passenger station for a short time this morning.

The three brokers that had the pearls were George Thurman, Albany, J. O. Young of Broadhead and T. O. Heide of Prairie du Chien. The pearls varied from 75 to 6 grains each and were all the colors of the rainbow as well as white. Mr. Heide alone had about $8,000 worth of the gems and was on his way to Chicago to dispose of them.

While here Mr. Heide sold a beautiful Sugar river pearl to his father-in-law, Mr. Thurman, for a handsome price. It weighed about eight grains and was of a beautiful peacock green color and was a rare pearl of its size. It originally belonged to an Englishman living in Albany and is one of the handsomest pearls ever found in the river.

Mr. Heide has lived at Prairie du Chien for four years and has speculated in pearls. During that time he has cleaned up between ten and twelve thousand dollars in the business.

One pearl weighing about twenty-five grains was in the collection and was said to be worth from $700 to $1,000. Another one much larger, was not worth near so much simply because of the coloring and shape.

SHARP ADVANCE IN ALL GRAINS

Government Crop Report Issued This Morning! Was Disappointment to the Bears.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—The government crop report was disappointing to the bears and caused a sharp advance in prices of all grains on the board of trade this morning. Sept. wheat went to 73½, two over Saturday's close. May 73½ to 76; Sept. corn up 2½ to 61. May 2½ to 65½. Sept. oats jumped from 35½ to 37½; May from 38½ to 40½.

The Original of Barrie's Grisel.

If the American visitor to London this season will watch carefully when he or she is at first nights at the theater or at picture shows, it is possible that he may see a charming lady with a "crooked smile," which he will recognize if he has read his Tommy and Grisel carefully. She, herself the daughter of a novelist, is said to have suggested to Mr. Barrie many of Grisel's characteristics, although of course her life has been in no sense whatever like that of the book's heroine. She is not even Scotch.—Saturday Post.

CHURCH PEOPLE WELCOME PENCE

Popular Detroit Preacher Drew Three Large Audiences Yesterday.

ARE PROUD OF HIM

Former Janesville Pastor Is Given an Ovation by His Friends in This City.

MEETINGS IN DETAIL

In greeting to Rev. E. H. Pence D. D. of Detroit, three of the largest auditoriums in the city were packed to their fullest capacity yesterday with magnificent audiences made up of people of all denominations and beliefs but all united in friendship for the man whom they honored and to welcome whom they were assembled.

Rev. Pence's return to this city where for several years he was one of the most popular and forceful pastors, was an occasion of rare pleasure to his many friends and the reception which was given him by the people of Janesville was a most flattering one. The reverend gentleman could well be pardoned for feeling pride and gratification at the eloquent evidence of the kindness and affection with which he is remembered.

Busy Man Yesterday.

Rev. Pence was a busy man yesterday. The people seemed determined to get as much as possible from him during his brief visit. In the morning he preached in his former pulpit in the Presbyterian church and faced an audience which was certainly one of the largest ever gathered in that sacred edifice. Every seat in the auditorium, the Sunday school room and even the little gallery beyond the Sunday school room was filled, extra chairs were brought into use and many people stood during the service. In the afternoon at the meeting of the Francis Murphy League, Rev. Pence addressed an audience which filled the Y. M. C. A. auditorium and at the union service last evening, the auditorium and gallery of the Congregational church were filled with interested listeners. The three great meetings certainly made the day a record breaker for a Sunday in summer. Many people there were who attended all three of the meetings.

The Evening Meeting.

Naturally the evening meeting was the monster service and Rev. Pence was assisted in conducting it by Rev. W. A. Hall, of the Court street M. E. church, who was the only pastor of the five local churches which unite in these services, in the city. Rev. Hall offered the opening prayer and pronounced the benediction. The congregational singing was led by Archie Crawford and Miss Ada Ford presided as organist.

Rev. Pence took his text from the fifth verse of the second chapter of first Timothy, his text being the words: "The man, Christ Jesus." In his introduction of the theme, which was the emphasizing of both the humanity and the divinity of Jesus, Mr. Pence spoke of the books now being written by a remarkable man in Scotland, George Matheson, a blind author, with a keen insight into the Bible. One of the chapters is devoted to the reason why Paul always spoke of his master as Christ Jesus while the other disciples called him Jesus. He finds the reason in the fact that the other disciples knew Jesus first as a remarkable man and were first impressed with his humanity.

Later it dawned on them that he was the Messiah and they came to think of him as Jesus, the Christ. But Paul never knew Jesus as he lived on earth. His first impression and conviction of the matchless being was that he was the Christ. Afterwards he came to know the Jesus whom the apostles knew as Paul never knew him. So it was that in thought Jesus came to him first as the Christ.

Things Church Needs to Guard. There are many things which the church today needs to guard and one is the humanity of Christ. For centuries the theologians took Jesus Christ far away from the people who needed his humanity. The speaker said that in the broadness of brotherly love and in all sincerity he had great respect for a form of worship in the church which he was glad to call a sister church, the Roman Catholic church.

Protestants are inclined to look askance at the worship of the Virgin Mary, but it is the greatest argument that could be brought for the need of a man God. Christ had been taken so far from the people that they wondered how they could reach him. They searched for some one who would have sympathy for them and who was so pure as to dare approach the Christ and they found what they sought for in Mary. Since Jesus came to live the human life on earth the name man has grown larger, has taken on a more marvelous dignity. People today are in danger of losing the semblance of man in Christ and much of this danger arises from the fact that some men have emphasized his humanity and denied his divinity. The man who does this puts Jesus farth-

TRINITY CHURCH CHOIR IN CAMP AT A PLACE CALLED WOAGANOKA

Now it came to pass that in the year one thousand, nine hundred and one, the choir of the church which is in the city called Janesville, went for its yearly camp to a place on the river which floweth through the city. And the name of the camp was called Woaganoka, which being interpreted meaneth a pleasant place and verily the camp was rightly named, for many trees grow there, and a cool spring riseth from the earth, and flowing to the river, divideth the camp into two parts.

Now the departure was in this wise. On the twenty-second day of the seventh month, towards evening the boats were loaded, and the people with a part of their possessions went in a large boat, which had not to be rowed, neither had it sails, but was propelled by a mechanical contrivance. And the remainder of the procession were placed in smaller boats, which were drawn after the large boat. And the master of the choir was captain of the expedition, and he directed the loading of the boats with great care, first taking in the youths, and after the youths, the ladies. And these ladies were of great goodness and freely gave of their time and skill that the others might not suffer hunger. And last of all was loaded a guest of the master of the choir, and he was clumsy, and came near upsetting the boat, in which case all might have been drowned and the possessions lost.

And when the boats reached the place which is called Woaganoka, there came forth to meet them four of the choir who had been at the camp some days, and who had erected tents in order that the younger ones might have places to sleep. But the tent in which they ate and in which the ladies reposed at night, was not yet erected, but under the direction of the master of the choir it was speedily prepared, and the other tents were made ready for sleeping.

Now it came to pass that on the second day of the encampment towards evening, the windows of heaven were opened, and the rain fell and the winds blew, and there was much thunder and lightning. And it was the hour of the evening repast, and the tent in which they ate was insecurely erected, and they had to leave the tables, and each one held a pole or a rope in place, until all could be made fast. And on the third evening the wind again rose, at about the same time, and this night the rain fell with more violence, yea, inasmuch that it passed through the tent in which the ladies did repose, and the rain wet the couches on which the ladies slept even compelling them to hold an umbrella above their heads.

But during the day the sun shone brightly, so much that it did burn their skins red, and one of the children whose name was called Francis, was so burned that his face and head and neck did swell, yea, and his eyes did swell so that he could hardly see from them save by raising the lids thereof with his fingers.

And on the Sabbath day came certain from the city, bringing with them victuals, and fruit, called lemons from which to make a drink, which same is called lemonade. And they did meet with the campers when they worshiped; and certain of them did worship with the campers, but others worshiped not, sitting on seats, and they stood not, nor knelt, neither did they pray. And later in the day came other four, even two men and two women, and these came to visit with the campers, but the others came to visit among themselves. And about the tenth hour the rain again fell, with such violence that all were fain to seek the shelter of the tents. And this caused much confusion, for the crowd was great; and the boys did squeal, and quarrel among themselves. But when the boat came and took the others away, and the food was eaten, then peace descended upon the camp. And that night all went early to their couches. And the morning sun dried the dampness from the face of the earth; and it was pleasant.

Now on the evening of the eighth day came the large boat, and many did leave on it for the city, for verily in the city was to be a show, which same is called a circus, in which many men, and even women also, do ride upon horses, and elephants and camels, and do swing in the air from a great height, even such height that it makes the spectators dizzy to behold them. And many things were there which could be bought, which the people did eat and drink, even peanuts, and lemonade which is pink. And of these did the people eat and drink, even until some of them were made sick. But the master of the choir ate not of these things, neither went he to the show which is called circus, nevertheless he was sick, but his sickness arose from the great heat. And he sought a learned physician, and the same did give him certain pills, which the master of the choir did eat, and he was cured.

And about this time there came to visit the camp, a lady who plays upon an instrument of music in the church, and with her came other three, and they brought gifts to the campers, and among the gifts were two of the vegetable called watermelon, which greatly rejoiced the hearts of the boys. And the melons were of such size that they sufficed for two days.

And now other afflictions came upon the child called Francis, even boils came upon him, as of old they came upon the Prophet Job, and he sat not down but did lie prone, nevertheless he complained not. And then it came to pass that he was sent to the city that he might seek a physician, who gave him relief from pain. But he came not back to the camp.

On a certain day the wind blew, but it rained not, and many of the boys did sail in boats, and the wind did so blow that one of the boats was overturned, and Arthur, who is called Archie, was thrown into the water. And he was wet.

And they erected a landing place for the large boat, and it was made of planks, and from the end projected one long plank from which the lads did jump into the water. And now it came to pass that he who was called captain was wont to go to the extreme end of the plank and there to jump up and own a great violence, hoping thereby to cause other boys to fall into the river. And on one evening when he did thus jump, the ropes which bound the plank became worn (or else they were cut) and he who was called captain fell into the water; nevertheless the others remained dry upon the plank. And a great shout went up.

And on the evening of the fourteenth day they did build a great fire, first erecting a framework of logs, many cubits high; and they did pile around and inside many smaller branches of trees. And when they had poured oil upon it, they set fire to it, and it burned with great brightness.

And on the fifteenth day, a sunset, they left the camp, to remain in the city for the space of one year. And there may be many things which are not written in this chronicle, and are to be found only in the memory of the campers.

NEWS OF THE DIAMOND.

Has Crolius been let out by Boston? His name isn't even mentioned nowadays.

Pat Murphy, who caught for New York ten years ago, is now a policeman in an eastern city.

Hartzel is getting the home-run habit. It is a good one to acquire and no man should break himself of it.

Deegon, New York's latest pitcher, is expected to prove a second Mathewson. The Giants certainly need one.

Buelow, the Detroit catcher, is said to be the fastest man in the club on straight away running. He doesn't show it between the bases.

Jake Beckley as manager of that alleged Pittsburgh American league team is a rich one. Jake's skull would have to be prepped first.

And now the good people of Milwaukee are after the umpires. They went on the warpath recently and threw pop bottles at Manassau.

Rube Waddell was deep in it with the bat as well as with the curves. He made a single and three bagger and scored two of his team's six runs.

Danny Green keeps right on hitting the ball, while his base running and fielding are better than at any time since he broke into the National league.

Any modest unassuming infielder, who can bat 447 and field .993, can hear something to his advantage by calling at the Cincinnati ball park.

Bruyette, Duffy's new third baseman, went in for the first time yesterday, late in the game, and made a two-base hit, besides accepting his only field chance.

George Yeager, released by Cleveland, has caught on at Pittsburgh—throm a 'tail end American league team to the topnotchers of the National. He has done nothing of quality so far.

Scrappy Bill Joyce may again command the Giants. He has gone to New York in response to a wire from Freedman. He will, of course, play first, and Ganzel will be let out.

Bug Holliday, once the star fielder of the Reds, follows the horses and never goes near a ball park. He says he doesn't dare to—that the old fascination would catch him and drag him back in the game.

AUXILIARY SHOWS GROWTH.

Royal Neighbors, Sisters to Woodmen, Flourishing.

There are a number of Royal Neighbors of America in this city who will be interested in the figures in the annual report of Mrs. Winnie Fieldman, supreme recorder.

The total number camps in existence in the year 1895 was 233, with a membership of 8,257. In 1896 the number of camps had increased to 447 and the membership to 15,958. In 1897 the number of camps was 772, and the membership 25,316. In 1900 the number of camps had increased to 1,230 and the membership to 44,543. The next year there were 1,455 camps and the membership was 50,934. In 1900 there were 2,344 camps, and 194,496 members and on the 31st day of last March there were 2,465 camps and 110,683 members.

The total increase in that comparatively short time was 2,232 camps and 102,426 in membership. The report enters at length into the work accomplished and is very well gotten up indeed.

The Man Without a Stomach.

Will the stomach become a rudimentary organ, lagging superfluous, when the human machine is trimmed and braced for the fiercer competitions that must come when the world is overpopulated? Look at Mr. Karl Kruger, gardener, of Chicago. Last spring he was starving to death with cancer of the stomach. April 20 the surgeons took out his stomach. In exactly eighty minutes. For some time, naturally, he mortified the flesh. He lived on prepared foods. A cheap diet if not a generous one. The makers were only too glad to purvey for such a patient. "Why our food is so healthful and nourishing that a man doesn't need any stomach to thrive on it." The advertisement was sublime.

And the man did thrive. He is thriving still. He doesn't miss his stomach and he doesn't miss a meal. He has passed the patent food stage. He has coffee and white bread and butter for breakfast; the same for dinner with a dish of potato, if he feels like it; and tea, white bread, butter and potatoes for supper. He sleeps like a top; "like a rock," he says. Necessarily he is free from horrible fevered dreams, those children of indigestion and overfeeding. He falls asleep as soon as he lies down. For him no mnemonic drill, no vain attempts to keep his mind from dwelling on the fact that he has one, no crazy efforts at "relaxation." The sleep of the stomachless is sweet.

Nor do such longings as are said to possess the wooden legged man come to him. He doesn't mourn the loss of his digestion-sac. "I simply eat and that is all there is to it," he says; "I cannot tell whether I have a stomach or not." O thrice fortunate, three thousand times fortunate Karl Kruger, healthiest of men! Worthy of all the wealth which the dime museum-men are eager to bestow upon him. "And then we attached this coducumen directly to the oesophagus," the surgeons murmur to the admiring visitors. And Karl smiles and says he is ready for his bread and butter and potatoes.

Weight at time of operation, 96 pounds. Present weight, 160 pounds. And still he gains and still the wonder grows.

The vegetarians chuckle. Kruger eats no meat; therefore he lives. Perhaps the illusion is a little weak. When we are all without stomachs, we shall all become vegetarians. Perhaps not very much sooner.—N. Y. Sun.

MAY EXTEND LINE TO LITHIA SPRINGS

Meeting of Directors of Beloit, Delavan & Janesville Electric Line—Accept the Franchise.

A meeting of the board of directors of the Beloit, Delavan Lake and Janesville Railway company was held Saturday in the office of T. S. Nolan, Directors Clough, Hill, Knox and Nolan were present at the meeting which was called principally to consider the question of accepting the franchise granted them by the council May 13, giving them the right to operate a street railway in the city of Janesville.

President Clough presided, and the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

"Resolved, That the president and other officers of this company be requested and are authorized to file with the clerk of the city of Janesville an acceptance of the ordinance ordained and enacted by the common council of the city of Janesville May 13, 1901, which said acceptance shall agree on the part of this company, to comply with the requirements of said ordinance, and

"Resolved, Further, that the officers of this company are hereby authorized to prepare, execute and deliver all the necessary bonds specified in said ordinance, requisite to be filed thereunder."

Their bond for $5,000 will be deposited with the city clerk as soon as work begins within the city limits. Mr. Clough is thinking of extending the line to the property of the Burr Lithia Co., and will have a survey of the ground made with that idea in view. In order to do this it will be necessary to ask for a permit to extend their line beyond its present terminal on wall street.

Hayes Bros. & Co., the contractors who are building the electric road from Rockford to Beloit and Janesville, says the Rockford Register-Gazette, are letting parts of the line where the work is of simple character, to sub-contractors. They are careful to deal only with men who are experienced or know how to handle such work. Where sub-contractors understand the knack of making every stroke count they make $5 or $6 a day for their teams. Mr. Jackson says. Only men owning the greater part of the teams needed are dealt with, but sub-contractors are allowed to hire about a third of the teams if desired.

The sub-contracts have been let for three and a half miles so far, in two contracts, beginning north of the crossing of the Northwestern road near Rockford. One is a section of one and a half miles, let to Putney & Marston, who have seven teams themselves and will hire three more. The heavy work is reserved by Hayes Bros. for their own force, including the deep fills and cuttings. The route as a whole has much easy grading. By the above plan the work will soon be in hand for the greater part of the route.

The work first in progress is the deep fill across the Kettlewell marsh, along side the road at the creek between the end of the north town bridge and the big hill on the road to the sanitarium. A 12-foot embankment is necessary at this point. The earth for the embankment is handled by scrapers from the swamp and from the gravel bank adjacent.

The field work here is all under the superintendence of the engineer, H. H. Jackson, who is a partner in Hayes Bros. & Co., and also represents the Ohio owners of the road.

WE ATTEMPT THE QUALITY OF OUR GOODS

What It Means!

The crowds that daily throng our store show that the people know a good thing when they see it. We endeavor every day to give substantial evidence that we are not unmindful of their patronage. Working on the broad principle of enlightened selfishness, we know that we serve ourselves best by serving the public most. To please the great public—the power that makes or mars us all—our best energies are bent, our highest skill engaged.

Pro Bono Publico.

We mention as very special Bargains a variety of Petticoats for summer and fall wear that are worth $1.00 to $1.50. Black Brillantine with fancy silk stripes around bottom. Wash Skirts of duck, Galatea cloth, silkette, light and dark, figured and stripes; these skirts are all made with adjustable yokes. Think of the price we have tacked on 83c to them.

Remnants of Wash Goods

About 300 remnants have accumulated, lengths from 2 to 9 or 10 yards. Galicoes, percales, batiste, dimity, &c., light and dark. Each piece is marked at the price for which one can have it, and most of them less than cost.

25c Goods for 14c—To make a clean sweep we offer what we have left of the fine French corded Batiste, regular 25c goods, at 14c a yd. We have sold an immense lot of them and can afford to sacrifice profit to turn the balance into money.

Wrapper News

We are prepared for any demand. If you want a pretty muslin or dimity wrapper, we have them. We are also showing a large line of dark wrappers for fall wear, but you do not necessarily have to wait till fall to wear one. Of the latter we received about 15 styles August 8th in red, blues, blacks and fancies, percales and flannelettes, at $1, 1.25, 1.50 and 2.

LATE TELEGRAPHIC NEWS

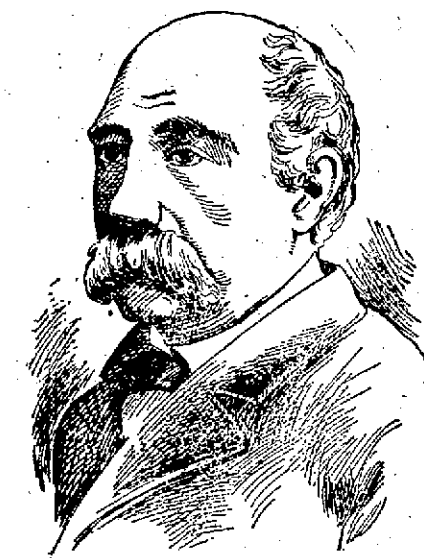

COUNT F. CRISPI IS DEAD

Ex-Premier of Italy Expires in Naples.

CONSCIOUS TO THE LAST.

A Big Public Funeral Is Planned by the City of Palermo—Career of the Noted Diplomat, Called "Bismarck of the South."

Naples, Aug. 12.—After a long illness which, during the past two months, assumed serious phases, Count Francesco Crispi, ex-premier of Italy, died here at 7:45 o'clock last evening. The great statesman was conscious to the last and in his dying hours seemed to suffer little pain. He was surrounded by the members of his family and a number of intimate friends. The news of Count Crispi's death was immediately telegraphed to King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helen, who at once returned a message of condolence. The body will be embalmed and will lie in state for three days in the drawing-room of the villa Sina in Naples, the walls of which are adorned with frescoes and presenting the principal episodes of the Garibaldian epoch. Signor Joratro, the sculptor, has taken a cast of the face. Seals have been affixed to the belongings of the deceased and Signor Lauronzana of the chamber of deputies has been appointed trustee of the will. Veteran soldiers, firemen and police will act as a guard of honor during the lying in state. A great state funeral will be held in Naples before the body is removed to Palermo. King Victor Emmanuel will be represented at the obsequies. His wife and daughter did not leave the bedside for fifty hours and their friends were compelled to use loving violence to induce them to quit the chamber. When all was over Princess Linguaglossa fainted and had to be carried out by her husband.

In 1861 Crispi had won wealth and fame. As counsel for the Calabro-Sicilian railroad company his fees were enormous. Riches increased his political and social importance, which enabled him to decline the portfolio of the interior in the cabinet of Rattazzi in 1867. In 1876, however, he became president of the chamber of deputies and minister of the interior in the Depretis-Nicotera cabinet, and when Victor Emmanuel died, in January, 1878, no man enjoyed a more commanding influence in Italy than Crispi.

Chinese to Make Demands.
Honolulu, Aug. 12.—The fight over the Chinese immigration funds will very likely be carried to Washington, to be laid before the federal authorities there. The Chinese consul here has issued a proclamation calling a meeting of the interested Chinese, asking them to demand a return of the passage money which has now been turned over to the treasury. The proclamation is full of incorrect statements regarding the matter and Acting Governor Cooper has mailed a translation of the document to Washington with a view to calling the Chinese consul to an accounting for his statements.

Quarrels with the French.
Constantinople, Aug. 12.—The Franco-Turkish dispute on the quay claims remains unsettled. Turkey persists in the idea of purchasing the quays from the French company, but it is impossible to find the money at present, owing to the impoverished condition of the treasury. The porte today again informed M. Constans, the French ambassador, that the French conditions for the transfer of the quays were unacceptable.

Russo-American Alliance Urged.
St. Petersburg, Aug. 12.—The newspapers yesterday unite in urging the government to effect a speedy settlement with America in tariff matters, in order to concentrate all efforts upon the German tariff war, which they say now appears inevitable. The papers say that America also has many tariff grievances against Germany, and therefore Russia and America should combine to bring Germany to her knees.

THE FIRE RECORD.

Big Amphitheater Burned.
Lexington, Ky., Aug. 12.—A disastrous fire visited this place, destroying property valued at $50,000, including the famous Tattersall's amphitheater and other noted horse properties. Tattersall's amphitheater, a handsome structure built twelve years ago, covered a quarter mile track encircled by stalls. The fire is supposed to have started from a pipe in one of the stalls. Insurance aggregating $25,000 was carried on the burned property.

Train Race with Forest Fire.
Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 12.—Severe forest fires are raging in several parts of the great timber belt lying west of the Cascade mountains. Another fire is raging on the Seattle division of the Northern Pacific. The Great Northern overland had a thrilling race through this fire, with flames leaping about it on both sides. Many of the passengers were overcome by fright and several women fainted.

Boy and Horses Burned to Death in Barn.
Knox, Ind., Aug. 12.—Fire on Brein's marsh, 5 miles from here in the evening destroyed a large hay barn. A boy was burned to death. Five horses were killed and 400 tons of hay destroyed. The loss is $2,000. The fire is supposed to have been caused by sparks from a locomotive.

Large Factory Is Burned.
St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 12.—Two large buildings owned by the Hafner-Lothman Manufacturing company, consisting of planing mill and sash and door factory, were burned, entailing a loss estimated at $150,000.

Foundry Burned at Joliet.
Joliet, Ill., Aug. 12.—Humphrey & Son's foundry was burned, involving a loss of $20,000. The pattern-shop, with patterns valued at $50,000, was saved after a hard fight. Loss covered by insurance.

Hotel Destroyed by Fire.
Clinton, Ill., Aug. 12.—The Denver House and Stuart Hotel were burned to ashes. The loss will reach $8,000 or $10,000, partially insured.

DAVITT IS NOW AT CHICAGO

Noted Irish Nationalist Is Again a Visitor.

SAYS ENGLISH PAPERS LIE.

Scores the English Policy in Dealing with Boers in War—The Leader Who Quit Parliamentary Seat in Protest Is Bitter.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—"Yes, I am to speak at the celebration of the United Irish Societies next Thursday at Sunnyside park on a subject that is altogether new," said Michael Davitt yesterday. "My address will be on the 'Irish Question.'" And the Irish leader chuckled at his little joke. In company with John F. Finerty, the Irish nationalist arrived in the morning from New York. He was tired when the train rolled into Chicago and was taken immediately to the Auditorium hotel, where a room had been prepared for him. He wore a pepper-and-salt suit. His beard showed more streaks of gray than it did when he was here three years ago. But if the evidences of approaching old age were upon the great Irishman his ardor was still that of warm-blooded youth. With flashing eyes and at times with impassioned eloquence Mr. Davitt spoke of the war being waged in South Africa. He spent three months last year with the Boers in the field and so strongly did he sympathize with them and their cause that he resigned his seat in the house of commons as a protest against the continuance of the conflict. "The true situation has not been known, either to the people of Great Britain or the world," he said. "There have been more deliberate lies printed in the English press concerning the Boers and the progress of the war than have been printed in the same length of time by the newspapers of all the world. It is absolutely impossible to believe what you see in the public prints. The dispatches from South Africa are so full of contradictions you are told, but recitals of misleading lies. England always has adopted the same tactics. It has maligned its enemies in all of its wars past and gone. It never has shown the boasted chivalry, the nation claims, but instead it has attacked honorable foes in ways that have been disgraceful. In your revolutionary war this same spirit was shown by England. When the British captured Nathan Hale they hanged him. That was to be expected. But they tore up before his eyes a letter he had written to his mother and they took from him his bible. On the other hand, when your soldiers captured Andre they treated him with courtesy and the day before his execution he dined with Washington. England is treating the Boers in the same way it has treated all the people it has warred with. They are holding them up in a false light so that the little band of heroes that are losing their country foot by foot will not be accorded the sympathy or moral support of other nations."

Shoots Daughter: Kills Self.
Cleveland, Aug. 12.—Mrs. Robert Pringle, while temporarily insane from illness, fired three shots into the body of her 13-year-old daughter Mildred, then fired a single bullet into her own abdomen, and without knowing that the weapon was empty, aimed it at her 11-year-old son Barton, and pulled the trigger. The boy grappled with his mother, and took the weapon from her, after which she fell to the floor unconscious and died at 8 o'clock. Mildred will probably recover. Mrs. Pringle was the wife of Captain Pringle of the lake steamer Helena.

Crew Stricken with Mumps.
Nantucket, Mass., Aug. 12.—The battleship Alabama is in quarantine off this port because of an epidemic of mumps among the members of the crew. The disease is claiming victims at the rate of about three a day, and before it has run its course it is feared all the crew, except those who are immune, will have the malady. As fast as the men come down they are sent to the shore and housed in a retreat two miles from the beach, where they are carefully attended.

Encke's Comet Again Seen.
Geneva, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Encke's comet was observed Sunday morning by Dr. William R. Brooks at Smith's observatory. The comet is in constellation Gemini, in the eastern morning sky. Its position was right ascension 6 hours 35 minutes 20 seconds, and declination north 31 degrees 17 minutes. The comet is moving in a southeasterly direction, and approaching the sun. It is increasing in brightness, but is not visible without a telescope.

WISCONSIN WEATHER FORECAST
Fair tonight and Tuesday warmer.

The United States is not too old to learn a lesson from Europe. Destruction, an countries in the matter of forest preservation. Norway furnishes us an example to be followed in this respect. William E. Curtis in his European letters to the Chicago Record-Herald, describes the condition of Norway in regard to her forests and forestry laws, which can be read with profit by our law makers and all interested in the preservation of one source of our vast wealth. The lumberman and the pulp manufacturer are assaulting the forest wealth of Norway so rapidly and determinedly as to destroy three trees for every one that is planted by human hands or springs up from nature. Formerly there was an abundance of oak in the southern part of the country, so much in fact, that all the houses were constructed entirely of this wood. Now there is none, and the old families guard with jealous care the odd pieces of oak furniture that once was so common to a Norwegian home. It takes at least one hundred years for a pine tree to grow to the size required by saw mills, and in view of this fact it is easy to figure out how long Norway pine will be a cheap commodity. To be sure, there is a forestry commission which controls the government land, but as that constitutes but twelve per cent. of the total area, its field of operation is limited. A new bureau similar to ours has recently been established for the purpose of preventing the destruction of young trees, which will seriously interfere with the pulp manufacturers, but will save the country from complete destruction. The government has also established forestry schools where students become forestry experts. This movement is timely, because it will save not only the forests of the country, but also the streams, and indirectly the agriculture, which is the backbone and sinew of our land.

A New York newspaper in commenting on the recent drouth, refers to corn as our minor crop, and expresses surprise that so much anxiety should be felt for its welfare. We cannot see why any well informed metropolitan newspaper should call corn a minor crop when its value is greater than that of any other farm product. In fact, it is twice as valuable as our wheat, and more valuable than our wheat and oats combined. The corn crop is one of the greatest sources of revenue to the railroads because of its quantity and bulk. Its failure means diminution in business for the railways of the middle west, the cattlemen, and indirectly the merchants. Strikes and bank failures are disastrous, but insignificant when compared with the blasting of a corn crop, and if the reports of newspaper correspondents and Board of Trade manipulators were true, our era of good times and plenty of money would have received such a setback as to remind us of the nineties. If our corn crop falls to three-fourths of an average yield there will be such a turmoil that the papers which call corn a minor crop will be shocked into a figuring and thinking frame of mind.

Tillman has washed his soiled linen and McLaurin his. Now they have each purchased a copy of Crab's "Synonyms and Antonyms," preparatory to delivery of a fresh stock of abuses.

The Racine Times suggests that President Harper keeps a full stock of abnormal professors because of his fear that the university will degenerate into a normal school.

The comparisons people are drawing between Tillman and Booker T. Washington do not disturb the latter any.

Men Behind Federation Council, Which May be Called.

Indianapolis, Aug. 12.—The call of the national executive committee of the United Mine Workers on President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor to convene a council of the presidents and secretaries of the various national and international unions affiliated with the organization to devise plans for assisting the Amalgamated Association in its struggle, will, if acted on, affect eighty-four national organizations with a membership of 2,000,000 workmen.

FOLLOWED REMAINS TO THE CEMETERY
Funerals of John Cummings, William Tarrant, Leo P. Brown and Master Charles Nohr.

A wealth of beautiful flowers and a large gathering of sorrowing friends made the funeral of the late John Cummings a very impressive one and told more eloquently than words of the high esteem which his life had inspired. The services were held from the home, 173 Washington street, at 2:30 o'clock. The Masons and the Grand Army, both of which mourn a loyal member in Mr. Cummings' death were present as organizations and were largely represented, there being about fifty Masons present and about thirty veterans of the Civil war.

Funeral of Willard Tarrant.
In memory of the late Willard Tarrant many sorrowing friends gathered at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tarrant, on Ruger avenue, yesterday afternoon, at 1 o'clock to pay the last tribute of respect.

After the service the remains were taken to the town of Turtle cemetery where the funeral party was met by a large assemblage of friends from that part of the country where the young man lived until within the past year. The funeral was an unusually large one and there was a wealth of beautiful flowers. The pallbearers were Fay Gower, Wallace Day, Richard Overton, Ervin Van Galder and Charles Van Galder.

Little Leo P. Brown Funeral.
All that was mortal of Leo Philip Brown, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Brown, of 105 North Franklin street, was tenderly laid at rest in Mount Olivet cemetery yesterday afternoon. Many sympathizing friends of the family attended the last rites which were observed at St. Patrick's church at half past two o'clock. Dean E. M. McGinnity conducted the service at the close of which the interment was made.

Master Charles Nohr.
Funeral services for Master Chas. Nohr were held from the home of the bereaved parents, Mr. and Mrs. August Nohr, near Afton, this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Paul T. Werth, pastor of St. John's Lutheran church of this city, was the officiating clergyman and the interment was in the cemetery at Afton.

Funeral of Elizabeth R. Cox.
The funeral of the late Mrs. Elizabeth R. Cox will be held from Trinity Episcopal church tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Rev. J. A. M. Richey will officiate and the interment will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

BRIEF BITS OF LOCAL NEWS

W. B. Donnelly and Miss Winnie Harvey of Escanaba, Mich., are in the city. They came to attend the funeral of the late Mrs. Cox.

W. J. Anthony, road foreman of engines of the Peninsular division C. & N. W. Ry., of Escanaba, Mich., and sons Eddie and Willis, are in the city to attend the funeral of the late Mrs. Elizabeth R. Cox.

Charles Blaney's "The Baggage Check" company, which was announced to appear at the Myers Grand tomorrow evening, has been canceled, as satisfactory arrangements were not made with Manager P. L. Myers.

er away than the man who emphasizes his divinity.
Great Sympathy of Christ.
Mohammed, Confucius and other great men lacked the one thing which draws men close to Jesus, the great sympathy which has rounded out his humanity. Jesus took the impossible role of life and portrayed it. With all his chivalry and heroism he held the milder traits of character.

He always had time to talk with children and his relation with them betrays a sweetness and dignity nowhere else revealed in his character. His remarkable sympathy and understanding which caused him to make the pleading of the wronged widow an example of persistence in prayer, his making her mite an example for the world's giving are things which the world understands.

He betrays his divinity in the simplicity of his illustration. His relation to the poor, the sick, the sinning, showed a full rounded man in sympathetic touch with every one.

Came to Justify Man.
But the text does not stop when it calls Jesus the man. It calls him also the Christ, anointed one, who came to earth to justify man, to regenerate him, sanctify and glorify him. Rev. Pence closed with a personal appeal to any in his audience to whom Jesus did not mean the Christ first of all to accept him as their personal Saviour at that moment and follow him henceforth. The sermon was followed by a brief prayer in which Rev. Pence alluded to the associations and ties of friendship which he did not dare trust himself to speak but which time nor distance could not weaken.

The Morning Service.
In his sermon at the morning service at the Presbyterian church Rev. Pence also emphasized the humanity of Christianity. For the central thought he took the first four verses of the first chapter of the gospel according to St. Luke.

In the brief statement of these verses is found the intensely human method of visiting the bible. Luke wrote to his friend, Theophilus, and his letter gives the world a portrayal of Christ such as none of the other evangelists have given. It gives another perspective of Jesus. Luke's method of writing is strange, but the more one studies it the more human it becomes.

The bible should not be put up on the shelf. It is an intensely human book. Luke's gospel should be read in its entirety. When Theophilus received his letter he didn't read a few verses one day and a few the next.

The bible is an inspirer of literature and few people realize what beautiful, inspiring stories it contains. It is the intention of God that as of old his life shall find a home on this earth. The best thing to do about Christianity is to emphasize its beauty and the power of its humanity.

The music for the morning service was very fine. Mrs. J. F. Sweeney was the organist and exquisitely rendered vocal solos by Miss Watts, who has a powerful and well cultivated contralto voice, and by Leonard Matthews, added much to the pleasure of those who attended the service.

Souvenir Postals.

Among the souvenir postals from interesting places in the land across the Atlantic sea, which S. Trulson has received from his son, Dr. L. M. Trulson, who with his bride is enjoying an extensive European trip, there is one which Mr. Trulson prizes above all the others. Mounted on the card is a very fine kodak photograph of Mr. Trulson's brother and his family, who live in Norway. The picture of the group was taken in front of their home by Dr. Trulson, while he and his wife were their guests. It is clear in detail, and was a pleasant surprise to his father.

Hurlburt of Chicago, treasurer of the W. B. M. I. will give an address during the afternoon. Each lady will furnish but one article for the picnic supper and bring her own dishes.

New Parlor Cars.

Two parlor cars, named respectively "Janesville" and "Beloit," "spick and span new" from the builders have been received from the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway and will be placed at once in the service for which they were expressly built—between Chicago, Janesville and Madison.

Christian Endeavor Growth.
Secretary Baer of the Society of Christian Endeavorers, in his report read before the convention at Cincinnati stated that in 1891, at the close of the first decade of the existence of the society, there were 16,274 societies, with a membership of 1,000,000. Today there are 61,427 societies, with a membership of 4,000,000. The growth during the past year has been 2,000 in societies and 100,000 in membership.

One of Douglas Jerrold's Foes.

One evening at a small party which included the two friends, Douglas Jerrold and Charles Knight, the author-publisher, the talk turned on epigrams. As they were walking home together, Knight, half lightly and half in earnest, asked the wit to write his epitaph for him. Jerrold made no answer, but when they came to the parting of their ways he suddenly said: "I've got your epitaph." "Well, what is it?" "Good Knight."

GREAT MEETING OF MURPHY LEAGUE

Y. M. C. A. AUDITORIUM CROWDED TO THE DOORS.

Dr. J. B. Whiting, President, and Happily Introduced the Speaker of the Occasion, Dr. E. H. Pence—Eloquent Tribute to Francis Murphy and Members of Janesville League

One of the best and most inspiring meetings ever held by the Francis Murphy Temperance league was enjoyed by a magnificent gathering of people which completely filled the Y. M. C. A. auditorium yesterday afternoon. The meeting was an eloquent tribute to Rev. E. H. Pence although he modestly disclaimed the honor and declared it was interest in the cause which drew the people together.

It was a splendid meeting. Dr. J. B. Whiting presided, as he only can, in his gracious, inspiring manner. Archie Crawford led the singing and C. Sandell offered the opening prayer.

Dr. Whiting said that he found himself down on the program for remarks. He simply wished to express his profound appreciation of the honor done him by the committee in asking him to preside on so interesting an occasion. Just such meetings are not frequent in any man's life and as one finds himself coming into the twilight of a long day the occasions grow fewer and the compliment is more highly prized. Dr. Whiting then introduced the speaker of the afternoon in his accustomed happy style.

Rev. Pence was the only speaker, a fact which somewhat surprised him but which pleased the people. He had expected to say a few words of greeting only but he proved more than equal to the demand made on him. He spoke in his characteristic way, giving frequent opportunity for smiles and laughter and yet making his wit serve only to make the truths which he uttered, more impressive.

He said that many things had grown on him since that most doleful, sorrowful afternoon in his life when he said goodbye to the Francis Murphy league. He had come to see that there were two sides to the temperance question just as there are two sides to war, a fact which the speaker thought of while he was listening to Dr. Whiting whom every one honors for what he is and for the valiant service which he gave his country in the civil war and since then in the time of peace.

It brought to mind the annual banquet of the Twilight Club in May, 1898, when the program concerned the threatening war and many of the younger men had made enthusiastic and jubilant speeches. Then Dr. Whiting rose and told of the sober side of war, what it meant in the camp and of the sorrow which it must inevitably cause.

Thus there is another side to the temperance question. God made alcohol as a test of man's manhood. Its power cannot be overthrown by fighting the saloon keeper. That has been tried for half a century and the number of saloons have increased. Something else must be done. The best way to get at a man is to convince him that you love him.

This is the solution of the temperance question on the personal side. The speaker said he was not talking of the political or sociological side of the question, but of what could be done personally.

No matter how low down a man is there must be two or three things to get beneath him before he can be lifted up. The first must be self-respect. The man who has lost his own self-respect because he feels that he has lost that of other people is the hardest man to reach. He must be convinced that those who are trying to help him are honestly interested in him.

The reason the Murphy league lasts is because it runs in sympathy with the forces of human nature. You can rub a man the wrong way as well as a cat and you will never tame either by rubbing the wrong way. God has laid a commission on some men to stand in the league and refute the doubting statements made when they began the sober life.

If they should chance to fall they will not stay down long because they have tasted the sweets of life and know what it is to be a Christian man. If they fall there are men in the league to hold out the helping hand. That is what the league is for.

Rev. Pence closed with a tribute to Francis Murphy and the prophecy that ten years from now the league which bears his name will need a larger hall than the Y. M. C. A. auditorium for its meetings. After he had finished Dr. Whiting asked him if he would be willing to grant another favor and ask for a collection. Mr. Pence laughingly agreed saying that was on of his specialties. He then made an eloquent plea for the empty treasury and at its close Dr. Whiting sprung a surprise on every one by asking Mr. Pence to take up the collection on one side of the house while he collected the contributions on the other. This caused a great deal of merriment but the effect was a desirable one for the collection amounted to about $35. Dr. Whiting said Mr. Pence collected the most money because he was a handsomer man not because he worked any harder and furthermore people appreciated the unusual honor of having a doctor of divinity pass the collection plate.

The meeting closed with singing and the benedictory prayer by Rev. Pence. After the meeting many lingered to greet him personally. Indeed, informal receptions followed every meeting at which Rev. Pence spoke yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Baines leave on Wednesday for a two weeks' pleasure trip in the east, which will include a visit to Buffalo, Niagara Falls and other points of interest. They will make the trip east by way of the lake and return by rail. The boat trip will be made on the Northland, the most elegant steamer that leaves Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Hall will also leave for Buffalo on the Northland next Wednesday.

E. B. Heimstreet and W. P. Clark of Milton, left this morning for La Crosse, to attend the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Druggists' association. It is expected that about three hundred druggists from all parts of the state will be present at the meeting. On Thursday the crowd will be taken on a boat up the Mississippi to Trempealeau, where a match game of ball will be played.

HOUSEWIFE'S OPPORTUNITY

The whole country is seriously affected by the drought and fruits and vegetables are more than double last year's prices. Packers long ago withdrew all offers of the new pack. Our contract was made several weeks ago for the largest shipment of high grade canned goods ever sent to Wisconsin market—some 2,000 dozen. The representative of the canners has sold about one-half these goods for us and we will now take orders at same prices from those who missed seeing her. The goods were bought before the many advances took place and the benefit will now be given by Grubb to all those desiring to purchase.

LOCAL GOLFERS ON VISIT TO MADISON

Handsomely Entertained by the Maple Bluff People—Sinnissippi Tournament Opens Tomorrow.

About fifteen members of the Sinnissippi Golf club were handsomely entertained yesterday by the members of the Maple Bluff Golf club of Madison. The party left this city yesterday morning at 7:30 over the Northwestern. They were met at Madison by a committee of members of the golf club and escorted across the city to Lake Mendota where the club's steamer, "Putter," was in readiness to carry them across the lake to the grounds.

The club house and grounds are located at the east end of Lake Mendota, on the lake shore drive, about two miles from the city. The club house is located on a high knoll, in the center of the grounds, commanding a fine view of Lake Mendota and the play at every hole on the course but one. It is a modern, one story structure with an immense porch on three sides of it, most of which is enclosed with screen. The club house is a popular place for club members and their friends, and have meals served.

The course is a new one a little over 2,300 yards long. Only one of the holes is more than a drive and a master shot and some of them are even shorter. It is a sportsy course, and an interesting one to play over, but it will be two or three years before the ground is in first-class shape.

Last year the ground was cultivated and planted to corn. The club secured possession of it in the fall and seeded it down in hopes of getting the ground in shape to play over. They have succeeded fairly well so far and another season will see reasonably good turf in the course. The putting grounds were in bad shape and there was no certainty as to where a ball would stop on them when once started. A great many strokes were lost on this account by the Janesville boys who were used to fairly good greens.

The party returned home last evening at 7:15, highly pleased with their day's entertainment. They hope to be able to get the Madison players to come to Janesville soon, so that the Sinnissippi club can return the compliment.

The qualifying rounds in the tournament for club members of the Sinnissippi Golf club will be played tomorrow afternoon over the club course. It will be a handicap affair, the handicaps not being known to the players until they have played. Those who qualify will be divided into three classes according to their scores. The first eight will qualify in the A class, the second in the B, and the third in the C. The members of the different classes will then be paired off and will play match play for the prizes in their respective classes.

This system gives most of the players of the club a chance to compete for the prizes against men of their own class. Their handicaps being about equal it will make an even match of it.

It is hoped that at least twenty-four players will enter this tournament in order to fill out the three classes. An entrance fee of fifty cents will be charged and the money used to purchase trophies for the tournament. All entries should be made to Secretary Baker by this evening.

ATTEND NATIONAL MEETING.

W. F. Hayes is Charter Member of the American Association of Opticians.

W. F. Hayes, the eye specialist, with F. C. Cook & Co., leaves tomorrow morning for Chicago where for the next four days he will attend the national meeting of the American Association of Opticians. Mr. Hayes is a charter member of the association which now numbers thousands of members whose homes are in all portions of the United States. The meeting which opens tomorrow is the fourth annual convention of the association and will be held in the Sherman house. The sessions promise to bring together largest number of leading eye specialists that have ever assembled at a gathering at one time. Exhibit on a large scale will also be made by both domestic and foreign manufacturers of optical goods. Scientific papers will be read and valuable illustrations made. In fact nothing has been neglected to make the fourth annual session the greatest in the history of the association.

LATEST HAT STYLES.

Next Wednesday Mrs. Clark will have her early fall opening in advance styles in ready to wear hats at her millinery establishment adjoining J. M. Bostwick & Sons. Prices range from 25 cents to $3. Recent shipments from the eastern markets have been received, making Mrs. Clark's stock second to none in Southern Wisconsin.

EXCURSION CROWD NUMBERED 750

Of This Number: 105 Left Janesville for the Dells—Special Train Made Scheduled Time.

Over the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road a special train of thirteen coaches pulled out of Janesville yesterday morning at 8 o'clock for the Dells of Wisconsin.

Aboard were 750 people, the greater portion of whom were from Janesville, Beloit and Rockford. From the Bower City 105 tickets were sold. The train arrived at Kilbourn on schedule time. Boats were in waiting and within twenty minutes time of the train's arrival the merry pleasure seekers were on the Wisconsin river enjoying the grandest scenery in this section of the west.

Landings were made at the numerous resorts along the river. At 6:30 o'clock the special train pulled out of Kilbourn, arriving in Janesville at 10:30 o'clock. All who took the trip were loud in their praise of the excellent accommodations both on the train and boats.

There was plenty of room. Thacker's band of Beloit furnished music on the train and an Italian string orchestra supplied the inspiration on the boats. Division Superintendent Eldredge and Traveling Passenger Agent W. W. Winton accompanied the excursion, doing all in their power to make all comfortable. The day's outing proved a most enjoyable one, long to be remembered.

Northwestern Got Its Share.

The Northwestern carried its share of the excursionists of the city yesterday. At least 150 took advantage of the low rate to Oshkosh and about fifty went to Camp Douglas.

The Oshkosh excursion pulled into that city on time in two sections, at least eight hundred people being on the two trains, cars being added at the stations along the route to accommodate the crowd.

The Camp Douglas train also carried a large number of people and was a heavy train.

No accidents are reported, which is remarkable, considering the number of people handled. It speaks volumes for the careful way in which the road handles its business.

Loani Band.

The Loani band of the Congregational church will hold its August meeting with the other missionary societies of the church at the summer home of Mrs. Sarah Burr Tuesday afternoon of this week. Boats leave the dock at 2 and 5 p. m. Each lady will furnish but one article for the picnic supper and take her own dishes.

Mark Bostwick returned home from Chicago Saturday evening.

STORY WITH A MORAL

How a Tramp Found and Was Unable to Get Change for a $1,000 Bill.

"I've slept under a shed with the thermometer way down below zero," said the tramp, "and I've gone two long days with nothing to eat, but I'm telling you straight that when I once had $1,000 in my pocket I was worse off than at any other time I can remember. I had just been let out of the bridewell, in this city, and was begging on the streets, and was being turned down on every hand, when I picked up a $1,000 bill on the sidewalk. I thought it was a dollar and you bet I made a hustle to get down a side street. When I nudged into a doorway and made out that I was $1,000 ahead of the game the sweat started from every pore and my knees knocked together. I was regularly seasick for ten minutes, and my heart thumped away until I thought it would break out.

"That $1,000 meant a heap for me, you understand, but I was so excited that it was two hours before I could do any planning. The first thing was to buy a new suit of clothes and I entered a store and picked them out. When I exhibited the $1,000 bill the clerk ran to the door to call a policeman. I got away by a tight squeeze and then I realized the situation. Tramp that I was, I couldn't get it changed at a bank nor use it to make me comfortable. If it had been a ten dollar bill I could have had lodgings and a bed, but I'm telling you that I walked the streets as hungry as a shark and slept in police stations and in lumber yards.

"Under the circumstances the bill might as well have been a piece of brown paper. I tried all sorts of dodges to get it busted, but it was no go. Every time I showed it I ran the risk of arrest. I offered a butcher $100 to get it changed, but he refused to have anything to do with it. I'd have sold it for half price and been glad to, but there was no such thing as making a deal. Finally, in despair, I went to one of the newspaper offices and looked up the advertisements for a week past. The loser had advertised and I went to his office in a big building and gave up the bill. The reward was $50, but he counted out $10 on top of that and said:

"I wouldn't have believed there was such honesty in the world. You could have kept the bill as well as not."

"He took down my name and all that and gave the affair away to the reporters. They wrote me up as the 'honest tramp' and had my picture in the papers, but you may guess I didn't enjoy it overmuch. I had $60 in place of $1,000, and as for my honesty, it was all boss. I returned the bill because I had to, and though I'm hungry and dead broke, and don't know where to turn in for the night, I'm not looking for any more big finds. Something with a figure '2' in the corner will just about fit in my vest pocket."

A SUNDAY SCHOOL RALLY COMING

The Largest Ever Seen in This Section Will Be Held Here on Thursday, August 29.

The largest Sunday school rally ever seen in this section of the country will assemble at the court house park on Thursday, the 29th of this month. It is to be a rally of all the Sunday schools in the county, no matter of what denomination, and large delegations will be brought to this city, not only by the railroads, but by hay racks, lumber wagons and all sorts of conveyances that can be pressed into service. Those who have the rally in charge are pushing the arrangements to a rapid completion and the full program of the day will be announced next week. There will be a parade and splendid exercises in the park. Among the special attractions which will be present to participate in the occasion are the Milton Ladies Quartet, the Beloit Ladies' Quartet, a male quartet, and the Evansville High school orchestra.

Capital Afflicted With Fleas. Washington is afflicted with an epidemic of fleas. Countless myriads of the pests have distributed themselves over the District of Columbia, biting and stinging all they can light upon without regard to rank or color. They have invaded every house in the district and taken possession of beds and coats and hammocks. Like the celebrated sand flea of California, they exhibit a fondness for nesting and breeding in underwear and traversing the human body in a manner that causes one to stop and investigate himself to determine what is happening. Washington did not understand the flea invasion until a scientific attaché of the department of agriculture came forward and told all about it. The drug stores cannot supply the local demand for insect powder and tanglefoot paper. The fleas have got into the departments, where they pester and annoy the officials, and clerks of the government while they are at work. They have even forced an entrance into the white house.

August Mission Meeting.

The missionary societies of the Congregational church will unite in holding their August meeting and will enjoy next Tuesday afternoon at the summer home of Mrs. S. E. Hurlburt, treasurer of the W. B. M. Hurlburt, the steamer will leave the down town dock at 2 and 5 o'clock and will return at 7:30 in the evening. A picnic supper will be served and each lady is requested to take one article of food only and her own dishes.

SOME POWER PLANT CHANGES AT FULTON

Important Changes Will Be Made at Fulton by the Janesville Electric Company.

Some important changes are soon to be made in the power plant located at Fulton by the Janesville Electric Co. Heretofore the dynamo located at Fulton have furnished the current for lighting the are lights in Janesville as well as those in Edgerton, says the Tobacco Reporter. When the new machinery is installed a power current of high tension will be transmitted to Janesville and through a rotary converter attached to a shaft produce a power to turn the dynamo located in that city. The Edgerton Electric Co. will doubtless install another incandescent machine at Fulton to help out an overload that might occur at the Indian Ford plant. The contract has been placed with the General Electric Co. for a 250 horse power 3 phase high tension generator to be installed at the company's Fulton plant, which will enable them to utilize the Fulton power at Janesville for any purpose and at any time. The company expects to have the new apparatus installed within the next sixty or ninety days. The system of transmission from Fulton to Janesville will be the same as is now in use between Niagara Falls and Buffalo, but not quite as high pressure will be used. It will cut down the loss of transmitting current from Fulton from 20 per cent. to less than 4 per cent. The new improvements also include new marble switchboards at both Fulton and Janesville, equipped with the very latest measuring instruments and protective devices.

The Janesville company have also strengthened their plant by the purchase of a new 150 horse power engine of the very latest pattern from the Ball Engine Co. of Erie, Pa., entirely automatic and self oiling, will be put in, and a new generator which is to furnish the incandescent lights and power has been ordered from the General Electric Co. of Schenectady. This will be a 150 horse power dynamo and will practically give the company a duplication of its present machinery, and will also be a safeguard against breakdowns, yet it is made necessary at present by the constantly increasing business of the company.

SUIT AGAINST THE JEFFRIS LUMBER CO.

Appleton, Wis., Aug. 12.—Attorney H. D. Ryan, Clerk of the Courts Thomas Reese and Court Reporter F. S. Bradford went to Shawano today where the case of the Wisconsin Sulphite company against the D. K. Jeffris Lumber company will be on trial. About five years ago the Wisconsin Sulphite company, one of the Van Nortwick properties, arranged with the D. K. Jeffris Lumber company for the transportation by rail of 5,000,000 feet of pine saw logs from near Monico Junction to the lumber mill of the latter firm at Jeffris, Wis., and for the sawing of the logs into lumber and for the marketing and selling of the product. The lumber company was to be allowed a certain amount for the transportation, also a portion of the receipts to pay for the sawing, etc., and the remaining amount was to be divided equally between the two companies. The plaintiffs allege that the defendants failed to fulfill the terms of their agreement, that they allowed a good portion of the lumber to remain in the lake, that much of it sunk and was never recovered, that their expense account was exorbitantly large and included every item of expense in running the entire mill, that the sawing was done so cheaply that it was necessary to list the lumber as common stock. The defendants acknowledge an indebtedness of $3,000 or $4,000, but the plaintiffs will attempt to recover $35,000 or $40,000. Judge Goodland recently appointed M. J. Wallick of Shawano as referee in the case.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL NEWS

Mrs. H. A. Ford was the hostess at a very pretty afternoon party given at her home, 211 1/2 South Main street, Saturday afternoon. Miss Mary Belle Sausser, of Altoona, Pa., who had been visiting her friend, Mrs. Ford, for some time past, was the guest of honor. The company was a small one and the affair was delightfully informal. Six-handed euchre was played and the time was passed most enjoyably. A very tempting luncheon was prettily served and proved one of the most enjoyable features of the afternoon.

Mesdames Mary J. Lappin, E. F. Carpenter, Mary Doty and C. S. Putnam have issued invitations for Thursday afternoon, August 15, and Saturday, August 17, at 2:30 o'clock. The guests will be entertained at Mrs. Lappin's home, 252 Park Place. The first of this series of large companies was given last Wednesday afternoon and was a most delightful affair.

No party is quite so pretty as a children's party, and one of the prettiest was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Bostwick, 150 East Milwaukee street, Saturday afternoon. Their little daughter, Miss Faith, was the happy hostess and it was in celebration of the fifth anniversary of her birth that the party was given. About thirty people were her guests and they assisted her in celebrating her birthday in right royal manner. From four o'clock until seven the little people made merry in the fashion that children love best, romping in the joyous out-of-door games, laughing and talking to their hearts' content.

It was a perfect day for an outdoor frolic and the children saw that no minute of the precious time spent together went to waste. Little Miss Faith is a charming hostess and her guests will have good reason to remember her birthday for many days to come. Supper was served on the lawn at small tables and kodak pictures of the prettily dressed and happy children were taken while they were engaged in enjoying the feast of good things to eat which was prepared for them.

There was a pleasant gathering at the home of the Misses Clara and Louise Hanson, 113 Terrace street, Friday afternoon, in honor of Miss Kate Kirk and George Williamson, whose marriage is to be celebrated this week. It had been the plan to hold a picnic at Mole's grove, but the rain of the day previous interfered with this plan and so the lawn at the Hanson home was made the scene of the merry picnic for which the arrangements were made by the Misses Hanson and Miss Mabel Best. The party included about forty of the friends of the young couple in whose honor the picnic was given and they assembled about four o'clock in the afternoon. The elaborate and appetizing supper was served on the lawn and the afternoon and early evening was enjoyably spent in a social manner. The occasion was a very happy one and will not soon be forgotten by those who shared in its pleasures.

Says Canal Causes Fever. St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 12.—The annual report of Dr. Max C. Starkloff, health commissioner, to the mayor shows that in the year 1900 a larger number of cases of typhoid fever was reported than in any year since 1894, and the reason assigned is the sewage from the Chicago canal. In the course of the year 1,160 cases were reported, of which 161 proved fatal. In 1895, 392 cases were reported; in 1896, 281 cases; in 1897, 464 cases; in 1898, 408 cases, and in 1899, 1,114 cases. The big increase, it is shown, was when the Chicago sewage began to reach here. Dr. Starkloff states that he does not believe physicians report all the cases of typhoid. He estimates that at least one-third more cases occur than are reported to the board of health.

Slain by insane Mother. Rome, N. Y., Aug. 12.—While lying in bed suffering from injuries received by falling from a horse, Alvin Seaton, aged 10 years, of Glenmore was killed by his mother, who cut his throat from ear to ear with a razor. The woman was temporarily insane and alone in the house with her son.

Quits Pulpit for Factory. Moline, Ill., Aug. 12.—The Rev. Wesley Haskell, whose engagement to Miss Gertrude Stephens, daughter of George Arthur Stephens, vice president of the Moline Plow company, was recently announced, will renounce the ministry to accept a position with the Moline Plow company.

Death of William C. France. Lexington, Ky., Aug. 12.—News was received here of the death at New Rochelle, N. Y., of Millionaire William C. France, aged 73, after a brief illness beginning in London two weeks ago. He formerly owned Red Wilkes, for which he paid $50,000, and other noted trotters.

Young Woman Kills Herself. Fort Wayne, Ind., Aug. 12.—Miss Effie Richey, aged 30, bookkeeper for the Citizens' Trust company, committed suicide here by shooting. Nervous ailments are assigned as the cause.

Half the ills that man is heir to come from indigestion. Burdock Blood Bitters strengthens and tones the stomach, makes indigestion impossible. Accidents come with distressing frequency on the farm. Cuts, bruises, stings, sprains. Dr. Thomas' Eucletic Oil relieves the pain instantly. Never safe without it.

"Little Colds." Thousands of lives sacrificed every year. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup cures little colds, cures big colds too, down to the very verge of consumption. Itching piles? Never mind, if physicians have failed to cure you, Fry Doan's Ointment. No failure there. 50 cent, at any drug store.

Attempts to Kidnap a Child. Vincennes, Ind., Aug. 12.—A bold attempt was made to kidnap a little daughter of Walter Mustin. A stranger entered the house, seized the sleeping child and fled down an alley. Mr. Mustin pursued him and the man dropped the child and escaped. Yesterday a stranger at Robinson's circus saw the child and talked to her. He is believed to have been the same man who tried to steal the child. Detectives are at work on the case.

Yankee Yacht Wins Race. Chicago, Aug. 12.—The Cadillac, the trim and fleet Yankee yacht, won the first of the 1901 trial races for the Canada's cup on Lake Michigan from the Canadian challenger, the Invader, and those who saw this stirring speed contest between two of the greatest fresh water craft afloat say that the trophy will remain in the United States for another year.

AT TRYING POSITION

"My position is a trying one" was the joking remark of a clock model of a fashionable firm. But there is less jest than earnest in the statement. It is trying to be on the feet all day, to be reaching and stooping hour after hour from morn until night. And that is a very meager outline of a business woman's day. With many such women the ordinary strain of labor is intensified and aggravated by a diseased condition of the delicate organs, and they become victims of that terrible backache, or blinding headache, which is so common among business women.

If you are bearing this burden, bear it no longer. For the backache, headache, nervousness and weakness which spring from a diseased condition of the womanly organs there is a sure cure in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Half a million women have been perfectly and permanently cured by this wonderful medicine.

"My niece was troubled with female weakness for about four years before I asked for your advice," writes Mr. J. W. McGregor, of 624 St. and Princeton Ave., Chicago, Ill. "You advised her to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription which she did faithfully for nine months, and now we must acknowledge to you that she is a well woman. We cannot thank you enough for the cure."

Sick women can consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. Address, Buffalo, N. Y.

A Bad Disease

There is a certain disease that has come down to us through many centuries and is older than history itself, yet very few outside of those who have learned from bitter experience know anything of its nature or characteristics. At first a little ulcer or sore appears, then glands of the neck or groins swell; pimples break out on the breast, back or some other part of the body and fill with yellow pustular matter; the mouth and throat become sore and the tongue is at all times badly coated. Headaches are frequent, and muscles and joints throb and hurt, especially during damp, rainy weather. These are some of the symptoms of that most loathsome of all diseases, Contagious Blood Poison.

Contagious Blood Poison

This strange poison does not affect all alike; some are literally eaten up with it within a short time after being inoculated, while others show but slight evidence of any taint for a long time after exposure, but its tendency in every case is to complete destruction of the physical system, sooner or later.

S. S. S. is a safe and infallible cure for this bad disease—the only antidote for this specific poison. It cures Contagious Blood Poison in every form and stage thoroughly and permanently. S. S. S. contains no Mercury, Potash or other harmful minerals, but is strictly and entirely a vegetable remedy, and we offer $1,000.00 reward for proof that it is not.

OUR MEDICAL which was established years ago, is doing a noble work in relieving suffering. Give our physicians a short history of your case and get their advice. This will cost you nothing, and what you say will be held in strictest confidence. With their help and a copy of our book on Contagious Blood Poison you can manage your own case and cure yourself at home.

[Copyright, 1901, by G. L. Kilmer.]

BEGINNING of daydreams and a finish of terror and tragedy is the history of the French revolution. As a matter of course the scum arose to the top, and theorists and impracticables had their day. The revolutionists were never led as Washington led the American colonists. They took a wild, mad plunge into war on the king, and sometimes one idea sustained by a faction of thinkers, theorists and what not was at the front and again another. Not only were crimes committed in the name of liberty, but liberty was betrayed by the thoughtless and incompetent, who at heart were sound patriots.

Panegyricists of Mirabeau claim with a good showing of reason that he was the great man of the revolution; that he aimed to build up, to clear the ground for an enduring government that would give the people the largest measure of freedom. He surely did not work for anarchy and bloodshed. He opposed all excesses, aimed at steadiness and for a time shaped the course of the uprising according to his own ideas. But he was a man with a past which crippled his leadership and worked his ruin. His past romantic career, with its persecutions and sufferings, fitted him for the role of a revolutionist, but when the movement needed soul and conscience to guide it he was found wanting.

Count Mirabeau was of Florentine lineage. His ancestors settled in Provence in the seventeenth century and acquired titles and landed estates. The Mirabeaus were headstrong and unruly, but still deeply loyal to their king. They fought his battles, but were not gifted as courtiers. The grandfather of the revolutionist fell severely wounded in one of the battles under the great Vendôme. Seeing the line waver for a moment, the general exclaimed, "Then Mirabeau is dead!" The soldier's son, father of Count Mirabeau, was a man of letters and became known to all Europe as the "friend of man" on account of his advocacy of the freedom of land tenure. The infant Honoré, born on his father's estates in 1749, was a monstrosity and a prodigy. He had an enormous head and was born with two huge teeth and a twisted foot. When a year old, his father wrote of him, "I have nothing to tell you of my enormous child except that he beats his nurse." At the age of 3 he was disfigured with smallpox, and that caused his father to declare that he was "as ugly as a child of Satan."

When he was 5 years old, all Paris talked of his learning. Told that God could not make things which contradicted the evidence of the senses, like a stick with one end, he replied, "Isn't a miracle a stick with one end?" Honoré's sorrows began in childhood. The "friend of man" was a household tyrant and banished his wife from her home. Her successor poisoned the mind of the old marquis against his deformed boy, and at 17 he was sent to school in Paris. Becoming too much of a person there by reason of his brains, the tyrannical father sent him into the army to get tamed down. After numerous adventures Honoré married, got into debt and on applying to his father for aid was confined in prison by a lettre de cachet. He then wrote an essay on despotism which was printed in free Switzerland. Being allowed certain liberty, the young count rode out one day and patched up a quarrel with one enemy, then fought a duel with another and was sent to a dungeon in the Jura. His wife separated from him, and in his new abode he met a girl married to a man of 70. Then followed a scandalous runaway, arrest and imprisonment for three years, his father adding to his persecutions. In 1780, after visiting England, the count took up his Paris life and began pamphleteering on liberty. He said that the English constitution was the best then known, but the administration of it, the very worst possible. The pamphlets attracted the attention of the government and soon brought their author a warning to be more circumspect. He went to Germany, where his fame had preceded him, and was invited by Frederick the Great to visit his palace.

When the storm of the revolution was gathering, the count for a time held aloof. The nobility of his native Provence refused to affiliate with him because of the reputation he had gained in a long and bitter litigation with his wife and in other domestic affairs. Then he went to the people. The people were not yet ready to cut loose from men of title. They had faith in the king and laid their evils at the door of corrupt courtiers surrounding him. Mirabeau had rank, and he had brains, and the masses rallied to him. Already, in 1789, the populace shouted, "Long live the king and Count Mirabeau!" Wealth was showered upon the penniless Provencal, and he was elected deputy to the states general from the cities of Aix and Marseilles. It was at the celebrated meeting of the states general where the king announced his intentions to the commons and abruptly left the hall that Count Mirabeau first rose to the occasion and became the directing genius of the revolution. He had always said that he was waiting for the hour, the crisis, when one man's voice should be needed to incite or to quell. That hour struck. The marshal of the king, in the name of his sovereign, reminded the commons that his royal master had commanded them to disperse. Mirabeau was on his feet like a flash. Said he to the king's spokesman: "We have heard of the steps that have been suggested to the king, and you, monsieur, who are unable to be his intermediary to the national assembly—you, who have neither vote nor right of speech here—are not fitted to remind us of his words. Go and tell your master that we are here by the will of the people and that bayonets alone can drive us out." In that crisis the revolution was saved by Mirabeau, and he was looked upon by the moderate people as the "man of destiny." He led no party and was not always popular with the masses, but he had a lofty view and a pure ambition.

The constitutional pedants shunned Mirabeau, and while the rabid elements denounced him as a trimmer and a monarchist, the extreme moderates called him a dangerous revolutionist. All classes among the leaders feared his influence. His dictum was, "Govern by the king." He was always an adviser of the king and predicted the reign of terror. There seems to be no question that Mirabeau took money from the king, and Marat charged openly that this was the price for betrayal of the people in the assembly. Mirabeau wanted to be a crown minister under a constitution on the English model. He had no strong supporters among his colleagues in the assembly or the excesses which came after his death might have been avoided.

Mirabeau's fiery eloquence was his chief weapon in the assembly. In a single sentence he would reverse the tide of sentiment. On one occasion Necker called for a fourth part of every citizen's income to support the revolution. Mirabeau spoke twice very forcibly, but with only moderate effect. After listening some time to arguments and objections he again arose and said: "Today bankruptcy, hideous bankruptcy, is there. It threatens to consume you, your property, your honor, and you deliberate!" There was no deliberation after that, and Necker's measure went through unanimously.

In speaking Mirabeau had a movement of the shoulders described as colossal, and when he shook his head it was like the motion of a lion's mane. His terrible ugliness added to his power, for its effect was startling and electric. He never stooped to the tricks of oratory or pretended to an enthusiasm he did not feel. His eloquence might well be termed "logic on fire."

Mirabeau's death was hastened by the results of long exposure when a prison runaway. He was an incessant laborer for the cause of the revolution. His death was felt to be a public calamity for France, and his remains were placed in the French Pantheon. But when Marat died Mirabeau's ashes were removed to give place to his rival and enemy.

The day after Mirabeau's death Marat printed in his journal an article headed "Funeral Oration on Mirabeau," which was only a liberal outpouring of the venom which had shown itself from time to time in the speeches and writings of the "Friend of the People." He said: "People, give thanks to the gods! Your most redoubtable enemy has fallen beneath the scythe of fate. Riquetti (Mirabeau) is no more. He dies victim of his numerous treasons, victim of his too tardy scruples, victim of the barbarous foresight of his atrocious accomplices. Adroit rogues to be found in all circles have sought to play upon your pity, and already duped with their false discourse you regret this traitor as the most zealous of your defenders. They have represented his death as a public calamity, and you bewail him as a hero who has sacrificed himself for you and as the savior of your country. Will you always be deaf to the voice of prudence? Will you always sacrifice public affairs to your blindness? The life of Riquetti was stained by a thousand crimes. Let a black veil henceforth cover the shameful fabric, since it can no longer injure you, and let the recital scandalize you no more."

Another Frenchman has said that the crime of Mirabeau was this: "He would cure the French of their superstition for monarchy and substitute for it his own worship." GEORGE L. KILMER.

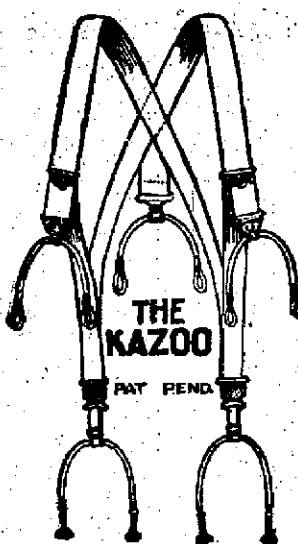

The greatest number of men ever employed on one structure was on the Gizeh pyramid, where 7,000,000 men were in forced labor. This pyramid is 450 feet high and covers an area of 13 acres, twice the dimensions of any other building in the world, in one instance taking 2,000 men three years in bringing a single stone from the quarry.

DRESSING WITH KAZOO

is simply a Hose Supporter and Suspender combined; so arranged that the strain is equal back and front, thereby avoiding the suspender slipping off the shoulder or drawing up behind, or down in front, thus it can be used either as a supporter or a suspender. The hose attached is adjusted by a slide and a snap loop, thereby avoiding the necessity of adjusting the hose each time the boy dresses.

THE KAZOO

PAT. PEND.

The Kazoo

Simply place the fastenings on the hose at the desired points, then leave them thus placed till the hose are changed, merely detaching from the suspender part as shown in cut of boy dressing.

They are made in sizes from 4 to 14. Price 50 cents and 75 cents according to quality. The Kazoo will outwear a half dozen pair of ordinary supporters.
